CHOICES · ADULT

No. 1

Sleep on the BIG ONE

An offer that dies overnight[1]
Decide in the morning,[2]
both paths[3] on one page.
Then take the one you'd explain[4] at breakfast, not at dinner.

TRY THIS

1. was a push, not an offer.
2. not at 11pm with your phone in your hand.
3. Two lines each. If you can't, it isn't ready.
4. to your kid, or to the friend who saw you last year.

CHOICES · ADULT

No. 2

Money: ONE NUMBER

Rent,[1] food, the train, the bills.
That total is one number.[2]
It's the floor[3] under every choice, not a score about you.

TRY THIS

1. Add the boring ones too. Boring is the point.
2. Write it on the fridge. It is not a verdict.
3. You decide from it, not about it.

CHOICES · ADULT No. 3

Say NO Before YES

Every yes spends[1] a Tuesday.
Look at the week[2] first.
I'll check and come back[3] is an answer.
A no now[4] costs less than a yes you break later.

TRY THIS

1. Open the calendar first, then answer.
2. If the week is full, the answer is already no.
3. It buys you the hour you need.
4. the yes you break later costs more.

CHOICES · ADULT No. 4

Two DRINKS Is a Plan

Decide the number before[1] you go.
Buzzed[2] is still over the line,
so the car stays home.[3]
If the night gets heavy,[4]
say it out loud and go.

TRY THIS

1. Two drinks, then water. Say it in the taxi.
2. feeling fine is not the same as being fine.
3. Leave it. Collect it tomorrow.
4. name it to the person you came with. Out loud.

CHOICES · ADULT

No. 5

Don't Sign ANGRY

Nothing about money[1] is urgent at 10pm[2] on a bad day.

Close[3] the page.

The document keeps.[4]

TRY THIS

1. not a contract, not a cancellation, not a transfer.
2. Late and angry is how bad deals get signed.
3. Set a reminder for the morning.
4. It waited a month. It can wait a night.

CHOICES · ADULT

No. 6

The Want That CAN WAIT

Add it to a list,[1] not a cart.

If you still want it in a week,[2]

it earns[3] the money.

The list is the test.

TRY THIS

1. One list on your phone. No checkout.
2. most things fall off the list by Thursday.
3. The ones that stay are the ones you use.

CHOICES · ADULT

No. 7

Ask what it COSTS You

The price is not the money.[1]
It's the Sunday[2] you lose and the thing you won't do.[3]
Say the trade out loud.

TRY THIS

1. It's the Sunday, the sleep, the drive.
2. and who picks up the slack at home.
3. Name the trade before you say yes.

CHOICES · ADULT

No. 8

One YES a Week

The week has room for one[1]
extra[2] yes.
Pick it on Sunday.[3]
Everything else can wait.

TRY THIS

1. one thing outside the usual. Not four.
2. A dinner, a match, a drive to see someone.
3. Then the rest of the week can be ordinary.

CHOICES · ADULT

No. 9

Your PHONE Is Not a Rest

Scrolling is not a break.[1]
Twenty minutes on the sofa,[2]
phone in the other room.[3]
Boredom[4] comes back first.

TRY THIS

1. It costs the same attention it spends.
2. no screen. That is the whole instruction.
3. Out of reach, not face down.
4. Let it. It turns into something else.

WORK · ADULT

No. 10

One THING Before Email

Open the one thing first,[1]
ten[2] minutes on it.
The inbox will still[3] be there,
and now the day has a spine.[4]

TRY THIS

1. before the inbox, before the messages.
2. The one you've been circling.
3. nothing in it got worse in ten minutes.
4. One real thing beats a clean inbox.

WORK · ADULT

No. 11

Say the ASK Plainly

Say what you need in one line.[1]

Then say why,[2] in one more.

No apology[3] paragraph.

People can answer[4] a clear ask.

TRY THIS

1. I need two more days on the report.
2. The data came late and I don't want to guess.
3. Sorry is fine once. Not five times.
4. Vague asks get vague silence.

WORK · ADULT

No. 12

The Meeting CAN END

The point[1] has been made.

Say it back in one line,[2]

ask who[3] does what,

then let it end.[4]

TRY THIS

1. Twice, if you count the second time.
2. So we're doing X by Friday.
3. Names, not roles.
4. A shorter meeting is a gift to everyone in it.

WORK · ADULT No. 13

Take the NOTE

Feedback is information,[1]
even when it lands badly.[2]
Write the one useful[3] line.
Thank[4] them for it,
then decide.

TRY THIS

1. not a verdict on the year.
2. Bad delivery doesn't make it wrong.
3. There is usually exactly one.
4. then decide what to do with it.

WORK · ADULT No. 14

Leave on TIME

The work expands to fill[1] the night.
Set the leaving time.[2]
Say it out loud[3] at four.
Tomorrow starts better[4]
if tonight ends on time.

TRY THIS

1. It always has. It always will.
2. Six, or whenever the train is.
3. I'm off at six ends the silent negotiation.
4. Not the version where you leave at nine.

WORK · ADULT

No. 15

Ask for the REASON

When the order[1] comes down, ask what it's for.[2]
A reason you can work with[3]
is worth asking twice for.

TRY THIS

1. a change you didn't ask for, a deadline moved.
2. What problem does this solve?
3. you can meet a goal. You can't meet a mood.

WORK · ADULT

No. 16

Your TEAM Is Not You

You cannot do all eight[1] jobs.
Hand it over with the reason,[2]
not just[3] the task.
Then let them do it their way.

TRY THIS

1. The team of eight. Yours is one of them.
2. This matters because the client sees it.
3. People carry a why. They drop a what.

WORK · ADULT No. 18

Eight Hours IS a Shift

You are not on[1] at nine.
The message can wait an hour.[2]
Answer once, in the morning,[3] when you're actually there.

TRY THIS

1. Or at ten, or in the bath.
2. Almost all of them can.
3. with a coffee, not with dread.

MIND · ADULT No. 19

Racing Heart, READY

Fast heart,[1] dry mouth.
Your body is getting ready[2]
for the thing[3] in front of you.
Let it finish its job.

TRY THIS

1. That's the body loading up, not breaking.
2. blood to the legs, air to the lungs.
3. It does this before the good ones too.

MIND · ADULT No. 20

Name It ONE WORD

Say the feeling in one word. [1]

Out loud, or in the notes app. [2]

A named thing gets smaller. [3]

Then do the next small thing. [4]

TRY THIS

1. Tired. Angry. Scared. Left out.
2. Both count.
3. Not gone. Smaller.
4. Tea, shower, one message.

MIND · ADULT No. 22

You'd Say it to a FRIEND

You made a mistake [1] today.

You'd say to a friend: [2]

That's rough. What do you need? [3]

Say that to yourself, [4]

in their voice.

TRY THIS

1. The one you keep replaying.
2. That's rough. What do you need?
3. Not a lecture. Not a rating.
4. use their voice if yours is too loud.

MIND · ADULT No. 23

What Went RIGHT

One small thing went right.[1]

Name it before bed.[2]

Not the whole day.[3]

The one thing.

TRY THIS

1. The email you sent. The walk you took.
2. Say it out loud, or write one line.
3. The day can have been bad and this still true.

MIND · ADULT No. 24

Don't Replay the SCENE

Replaying it doesn't finish[1] it.

Ten[2] times through changes nothing,

Ask the one question,[3]

then close the tab.[4]

TRY THIS

1. Same scene, same ending, same stomach.
2. except how you sleep.
3. What will I do differently next time?
4. Literally. Put it down.

MIND · ADULT

No. 26

Rest Is NOT a Reward

Rest is not the prize[1] for finishing.

It's part[2] of the work.

Take the twenty[3] minutes

like it counts.[4]

TRY THIS

1. There is always one more thing.
2. Tired judgment is worse judgment.
3. before you're too far gone to enjoy it.
4. It does.

PEOPLE · ADULT

No. 27

One NAME, Not Everyone

Reach out more is not a plan.[1]

Pick one person.[2]

Text them a sentence,[3]

today,[4] not eventually.

TRY THIS

1. It's a wish with a committee attached.
2. The one who answers when you're quiet.
3. Thinking of you. Fancy a walk Saturday?
4. Today is the whole trick.

PEOPLE · ADULT No. 28

Not a PROJECT

You cannot optimise[1] a person.

Ask what they need.[2]

Then stop[3] fixing.

Love is often just being there.

TRY THIS

1. Not their calendar, not their career.
2. Believe the answer, even "nothing".
3. Being heard feels like love too.

PEOPLE · ADULT No. 29

Ask, Don't FIX

When they tell you the problem,[1]

ask what they want.[2]

Most days, they want to say it.[3]

Then listen to the whole[4] thing.

TRY THIS

1. the one at work, or the one with their sister.
2. Do you want ideas, or just to say it?
3. Ideas land better after the person feels heard.
4. No interrupting with a better version.

PEOPLE · ADULT

No. 30

The CALL to Your Father

He's told you he's fine.[1]

Ring[2] him, not the group chat.

Ask about the small[3] things.

Then say you love[4] him.

TRY THIS

1. He said it twice, which means he isn't.
2. His voice tells you more than a text.
3. The garden, the bus, the neighbour's dog.
4. Out loud. He'll be awkward. Say it anyway.

PEOPLE · ADULT

No. 31

Say the THANK YOU

Say the specific[1] thank you.

Name the thing[2] they did.

Name what it made possible.[3]

People remember that version.

TRY THIS

1. Not thanks for everything.
2. Thanks for driving me at 6am on Tuesday.
3. I got there calm because of you.

PEOPLE · ADULT No. 32

Let Them Be RIGHT

You don't have to win[1] it.
Being right is not the goal.[2]
Say, I see it differently,[3] then let it be.

TRY THIS

1. Not the traffic argument. Not the sister one.
2. Being close tomorrow is.
3. then stop. Let the sentence sit.

PEOPLE · ADULT No. 33

Your CHILD Is Watching

They learn from the Tuesday.[1]
How you speak when you're tired,[2]
how you handle a mistake.[3]
Worth is not earned.[4]
Show them that.

TRY THIS

1. Not the talk. The ordinary evening.
2. on the phone, about the neighbour.
3. I got that wrong, sorry. They hear it.
4. Not yours, not theirs, not ever.

PEOPLE · ADULT

No. 34

The FRIEND Who Asks

Someone asks[1] how you are.

Fine[2] ends it.

Say one true[3] sentence.

See if they stay.[4]

TRY THIS

1. The one who pauses for the answer.
2. It's the polite door.
3. Actually, work's been rough.
4. The right ones always do.

PEOPLE · ADULT

No. 35

Ten MINUTES Together

Ten[1] minutes, no phone.

Ask one real[2] question.

Listen to the whole[3] answer.

That is the whole card.

TRY THIS

1. The dinner table. The car. The walk.
2. What was the best bit of today?
3. Not the first half while you plan your reply.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 36

One SMALL Step

The thing has been sitting[1] for weeks.

Make the first step smaller.[2]

Small enough to dislike less.[3]

Then do that one.

TRY THIS

1. The form, the call, the plan.
2. Open the form. That's it.
3. You don't need to want to. Just start.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 37

What You'd Do for FREE

Look at what you do for free.[1]

That's your reason,[2]

even if the job pays[3] you.

Keep it somewhere close.

TRY THIS

1. The thing that eats a Saturday gladly.
2. not the job title, not the salary.
3. Reasons survive a bad week. Titles don't.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 38

Write the GOAL Down

A goal you can't see is a mood.[1]

Write one line.[2]

Write how you'll know.[3]

Then put it where you look.[4]

TRY THIS

1. Written down, it becomes a decision.
2. Run the 10k in September.
3. A date, a number, a thing you can point at.
4. The mirror, the fridge, the door.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 39

Attach It to MONDAY

New things need an anchor.[1]

Use the Monday train.[2]

Read one[3] page, write one line.

Missing a day is not a reset.[4]

TRY THIS

1. A habit holds onto something already there.
2. Forty minutes, twice a day, already yours.
3. Small enough to survive a bad week.
4. The next day still counts.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 40

Your Values, YOUR Call

Nobody[1] can pick your values.

Write the three[2] that matter.

Test[3] them against a week.

The answer is yours.

TRY THIS

1. Not your manager, not your father.
2. Family, craft, honesty. Whatever is true.
3. What did you say yes to that fought them?

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 41

Progress Is NOT a Line

Progress is not a straight line.[1]

Some weeks go backwards.[2]

Look at the quarter,[3] not the day.

Then take the next step.

TRY THIS

1. It's a staircase with a stuck step.
2. Illness, a bad month, a new job.
3. A day is weather. A quarter is climate.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 43

Learn One THING

Pick one[1] thing to get better at.

Give it fifteen[2] minutes.

Compare you to last month.[3]

That's the only fair[4] comparison.

TRY THIS

1. Not a list. One.
2. On the train, before the inbox.
3. Not to the person in the video.
4. Everyone else is on chapter nine.

DIRECTION · ADULT No. 44

What Next, NOT When

Ask what's next,[1] not when.

The plan can move.[2]

Write the next move,[3] not the deadline.

Then take it.

TRY THIS

1. The when is a trap you set for yourself.
2. The direction doesn't have to.
3. One sentence. Do it this week.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT No. 45

Seven HOURS

Seven[1] hours is the number.

A run of short nights is a debt.[2]

Pay it back[3] at the weekend.

The phone charges in the kitchen.[4]

TRY THIS

1. Eighteen to sixty. That's you.
2. Not a personality. A balance.
3. An early night, not a lie-in marathon.
4. Out of the bedroom. Charger and all.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT No. 46

Eat Before the MEETING

Hungry[1] is not a state to present in.

Eat something before.[2]

You'll hear[3] more of the room.

Food is fuel, not a test.[4]

TRY THIS

1. The 2pm meeting after no lunch.
2. Even a sandwich in the lift.
3. Hunger makes everyone sound hostile.
4. No scoring. No guilt. No rules.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT

No. 47

Move so You CAN

Move for what it lets you do.[1]

Two[2] slow runs are enough.

Not to fix[3] a body.

To keep[4] the one you have.

TRY THIS

1. The stairs without stopping. The kid on your shoulders.
2. Twice a week. Keep it easy.
3. Bodies are not problems to solve.
4. Working, mostly, for a long time.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT

No. 48

Book the DOCTOR

Book[1] the appointment.

Write down what's been happening.[2]

Ask what it could be.[3]

Go back[4] if it does not settle.

TRY THIS

1. The one you keep postponing.
2. Two lines. Dates help.
3. Not what it is. That takes tests.
4. Twice is not fussing.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT No. 49

Admin in ONE SIT

The admin pile grows in the dark.[1]

Book thirty[2] minutes.

Do the three[3] that matter.

Close the laptop. Done.[4]

TRY THIS

1. The insurance, the school form, the tax thing.
2. Tuesday at eight. On the calendar, like a meeting.
3. The rest can keep.
4. Half a pile is progress. It counts.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT No. 50

Sunday NIGHT Reset

Before[1] the week starts,

look at the week once.[2]

Move the clash.[3]

Then stop[4] looking at it.

TRY THIS

1. Sunday, after the kids are down.
2. Ten minutes. Calendar, not feelings.
3. The 9am you can't make. Fix it Sunday.
4. The week can start without another look.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT

No. 51

Screens DOWN at Ten

Put the phone down at ten.[1]

The feed will keep.[2]

Read something dull[3] instead.

Morning-you says thanks.

TRY THIS

1. Not off. Down. Different room.
2. Nothing on it needs you tonight.
3. Dull is the point. Dull gets you to sleep.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT

No. 52

The House Can WAIT

The house will be untidy.[1]

The floor can wait[2] until Saturday.

Sit[3] down with them instead.

You are not being graded on it.

TRY THIS

1. It's a house with people in it.
2. Guests don't remember the floor.
3. Fifteen minutes. They'll remember that.

LIFE SKILLS · ADULT No. 53

Ask for HELP Early

Ask before[1] it's an emergency.

Say what you need,[2]

and who[3] could give it.

People say yes more than you think.

TRY THIS

1. Not when the deadline is tonight.
2. Two hours of quiet on Thursday.
3. Name them. Not someone.
